TRAINING

Programme : Equality Policies and Procedures

Participants are given opportunity to share good practice and develop further strategies to enhance the participation of marginalised groups. By moving from an attitude of compliance to a culture of proactive change organisations can ensure people are provided for with greater consideration.

With an understanding of the legislation, participants can begin to review and create new policy documents that will lead on better practice within their organisations.

- Secure a greater knowledge of the values underpinning equality legislation
- Understand what needs to be in your policies to address these imperatives
- Create policy documents that can support sustainable change
- Gain confidence regarding developing fair practice
- Understand social oppression, and the efficacy of positive contradiction in everyday situations
